

The Environmental Protection Agency visited the Pucheng Plant earlier this month to inspect the environmental protection policies and procedures which are currently in place. Having reviewed the manager's report and visited the workshops, office buildings and workers' dormitory, the EPA praised the management for attaining excellent environmental protection standards and the plant was accordingly awarded the title of "Provincial Model Enterprise for Environmental Protection".

The Pucheng Plant has strived to become a model "green"enterprise in environmental protection by promoting awareness amongst its staff. The Pucheng Plant has actively promoted environmentally friendly and energy saving productions and its management has implemented a number of innovative technological reforms through the recycling of industrial and domestic waste, and the comprehensive utilization of energy.

The management will continue to promote and develop these environmental initiatives to ensure continued success and development within this vital field.